ABSTRACT

A method and an apparatus for practicing music. A user utilizes the apparatus to generate notation representative of at least one set of musical tones. The user then produces at least one set of musical tones in response to random generation of the notation.